SUMMARY:

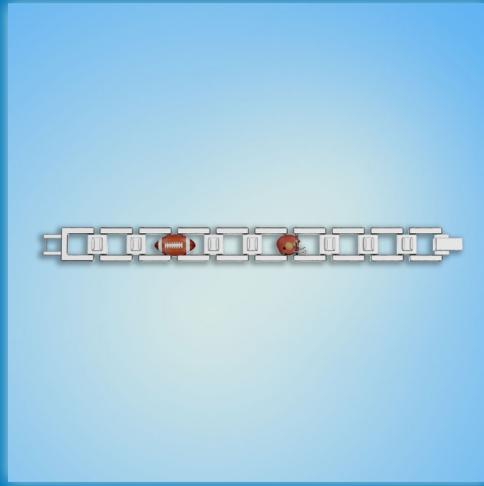

This bracelet creation is designed for men. The top surface has a smooth stainless steel or platinum metal feel to it, and the sides would feel more on the rough side with sort of a ridge feel to them.

The rectangular design with the diamond look in the center would be detachable from the bracelet.

The part that looks like a diamond would have a smaller, rectangular diamond look. The design pieces with the football, helmet, etc., would be detachable as well, so that the buyer or owner of the jewelry piece would be able to design their own bracelet with other removable add-ons. In other words, they would be able to add or remove a new design piece to show their very own creation, catering to their lifestyle or interests.

About the Developer

Lisa Stephens from Euclid, OH, developed her idea from personal inspiration when shopping and searching for a piece of jewelry for men. She wanted to create a unique piece for men to give more variety and creativity to add to their jewelry collection, and have fun with it as well. She contacted the Mars Rising Network and had a provisional and design patent application filed and had the invention designed properly so that she may see success with this great idea and turn it into a real product. She is actively seeking a company that would have an interest in licensing the product for royalty. Working with Mars Rising Network, this essential new design concept was refined and prepared to be presented as a commercial product.
