

Introducing

Pop a Squat

“The toilet seat that you can take wherever you go.”

TARGET MARKET:

- Hunters, and Fishers
- Hikers and Rock climbers
- Off roading and road trips

FEATURES:

- Fold in half
- Support
- Brace

PATENT INFORMATION:

Patent pending.

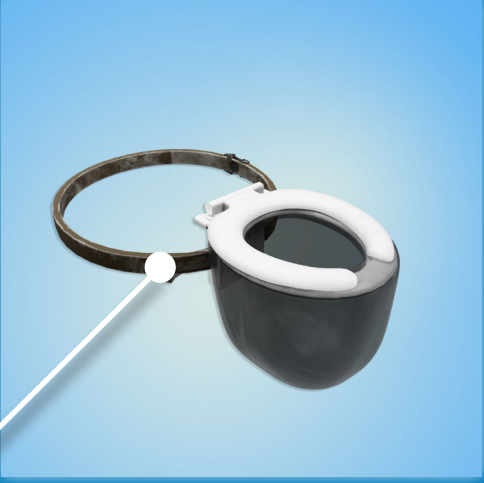

SUMMARY:

This invention is a portable toilet that can fold in half for the convenience of all outdoor people (hikers, hunters, off-road vehicle explorers, fishers, etc.) and road trips (long or short). This invention is convenient because it's compact, and you don't need to use a bucket or try to bring a bunch of stuff associated with it. The "Pop a Squat" is a toilet seat that folds in half and has a ratchet strap going through the back of the toilet seat, which then goes around a tree for support and braces the toilet seat. You can place a biodegradable bag up through the middle of the seat, wrap it around the toilet seat, and hook/grab the edge of the bag on the lip under the seat. Wrapping the toilet seat is an added sanitary bonus to keep the toilet seat cleaner for future usage. The "Pop a Squat" can also be used without a bag; you can simply dig a hole and strap the "Pop a Squat" over the hole and dispose of the waste by burying it instead.

The "Pop a Squat" will be made of hard plastic. The toilet seat needs to be an elongated shape with an opening front. The back will have a hinge that locks in place, making it able to fold inward. Behind the toilet seat will be a foam back of some sort to rest against the tree without slipping, with added grip with a casing below for the ratchet strap to strap in through and also hold a kickstand type to brace against the tree for added support for human weight against the toilet and tree. Everything can be made of hard plastic except for the obvious ratchet strap.

Ratchet strap

See how it works!
Watch the video at
www.popa-squat.com

Pop a Squat

For more information:

Inventor

Mark Crocker

Pouch Cove, NL

PH: 709-330-1112

Email: info@popa-squat.com

www.popa-squat.com

About the Developer

Mark was moose hunting one day, and he needed to relieve himself. He didn't have anything for comfort to do his business besides trying to find something to brace himself against. He has been pondering this idea for a few years now, and after he has had a couple of experiences outdoors from fishing or hunting, he decided to move forward with his idea because there are lots of people in his situation, and "Pop a Squat" will be compact and convenient. Mark contacted the Mars Rising Network and had a provisional and design patent application filed and had the invention designed properly so that he may see success with this great idea and turn it into a real product. He is actively seeking a company that would have an interest in licensing the product for royalty. Working with Mars Rising Network, this essential new design concept was refined and prepared to be presented as a commercial product.

Member of the

888-627-7747 / 888-MARS-RISING

www.themarsrisingnetwork.com • BBB A+ 5 Star Consumer Rating

Pop a Squat

MARK CROCKER